Home Learning

Hello home learners!

We are delighted to say that you are all still engaging really enthusiastically with the work that's being set and are joining in all the additional activities that are being offered. Well done, we know it isn't easy and appreciate all the work families are putting in.

Once again we have seen some fantastic pieces of work from all classes.

Thank you also for asking you children to adhere to the guidelines for our live sessions. This is helping the sessions to run more smoothly.

As always, if you are experiencing any difficulties, please don't hesitate to contact your class teacher or the school office—we are always happy to help.

Well done also to the children and families that are taking part in Mr Clark's art club, we have had some marvellous pieces of art work sent into school.

The small group SEN intervention sessions have started this week which are designed to offer extra support to those children who would have received it at school.

We have received some feedback from home-learners about the difficulties surrounding using a variety of platforms for live sessions. It is our aim to move to Google Meet for the majority of sessions where there are no overlaps. We are working in organising the times for all the different sessions we offer—your class teacher will be in touch.

We'd like to thank the Friends of Moorlands and all their helpers for remaining so dedicated and enthusiastic during this difficult time and for coming up with new and innovative ways to raise both money and moral for everyone.

We have some exciting plans lined up for the future, particularly concerning the development of our library that we can't wait to share with you all once they are confirmed.
